CARE Myanmar Purpose

CARE International is one of the world’s largest independent development and humanitarian organizations dedicated to ending poverty and injustice. CARE’s vision is a world of hope, tolerance and social injustice, where poverty has been overcome and all people live in dignity and security. Since 1995, CARE International in Myanmar has worked in partnership with remote, rural, conflict-affected and urban communities, government and non-government actors to reach those affected by humanitarian crisis and living in extreme vulnerabilities through a non-religious and non-partisan approach.

CARE Myanmar Long-Term Programs

Gender inequality is one of the primary forms of injustice and the most prevalent abuse of human rights globally. Advancing gender equality and women’s empowerment is the most effective way to deliver a stable, prosperous and peaceful community and country. Our work aims to enable all people to participate in their society and economy, to influence the decisions that affect them, and to give them the means to address the challenges they face. Putting women and girls at the centre of our work, whilst equally focusing on engaging with men and boys. CARE Myanmar’s 15-year Long-Term Programs focus on leveraging CARE International’s experience, partnerships and innovative solutions to challenges emerging from Myanmar’s development context for women and girls in remote, rural and conflict affected areas, and women and girls in urban areas.

2028 Impact Goals:

Women and girls in remote, rural and conflict-affected areas are socially and economically empowered and live with justice.

Women and girls in urban areas are enjoying their rights, dignity and benefiting from social and economic justice.
CARE Myanmar Approach

Strengthening Gender Equality and Women’s Voice
Informed by CARE’s Gender Equality Framework, CARE Myanmar works to bring about improvements in women’s agency and capacity, the personal and power relations within which women live their lives, and the structures that surround and condition their choices.

Inclusive Governance
Guided by CARE’s Governance Programming Framework, CARE Myanmar promotes inclusive governance through stronger civil society representing the rights of women and girls and advocating for inclusion of interests and priorities of women and girls in the development, socialization and implementation of policies, laws and services.

Increasing Resilience
CARE Myanmar works to strengthen women and girls’ capacities to respond to effects of conflict, economic shocks, climate change and manage disasters as means to address the underlying causes of vulnerabilities. CARE Myanmar will ensure gender and protection issues are integrated across all emergency responses, building gender in emergencies capacity and contribute to multiplying impact.
